COLUMBIA'S LAWS

What has become of Columbia's beautifully kept lawns? In spite of the earnest endeavor of the Garden Club, Columbia's lawns have looked as bad or worse this summer than they have for many years.

What good will it do for Columbia to have a Flower Show twice a year on which the citizens may feast their souls if they neglect to keep the beautiful around them for the rest of the year? Do not let the effort of the people who are attempting to make Columbia a more beautiful city be in vain. Let there be a co-operation in a city beautiful movement not only at certain seasons of the year but all the year through.

Suppose you did cut the weeds on and around your premises a few weeks ago you cannot afford to fold your arms and rest until weed-cutting season next year. If you haven't kept the lawn well watered, the dry grass and dead leaves need to be raked and cleaned away. Why not get busy and have a general fall cleaning before the arrival of the thousands of strangers who will soon be within our city gates.

The Germans are making porcelain money. Is this the opening of a world market for broken dishes?

A complexion gained through the use of plenty of milk and other wholesome foods will not only be a great satisfaction to the possessor and others, but it will not wash off like the one bought at the ten-cent-store.

LITTLE AMERICANS

There has never been a time in the history of the United States when the words "Americanism" and "Americanization" have been seen so often on the lips of so many people. The discussion as to what these words mean, what characteristics are distinctly typical of American life, is not confined nowadays to the orators.

The teachers in the schools are giving little Americans not only an understanding of the machinery but the spirit of democratic government. One of the principles being taught is that the good American plays fair. Clean play increases and trains strength and helps one to be more useful to his country.

The Law of Clean Play is selected from the $5,000 prize Children's Code written by William J. Hutchins and accepted by the National Institute for Moral Instruction, Washington, D. C.

1. I will not cheat nor will I play for keeps or for money. If I should not play fair, the loser would lose the fun of the game, the winner would lose his self respect, and the game itself would become a mean and often a cruel business.

2. I will treat my opponent with politeness.

3. If I play in a group game, I will play, not for my own glory, but for the success of the team and the fun of the game.

4. I will be a good loser or a generous winner.

This, the Law of Clean Play, taken from a code for children, if applied to the larger games of adults, would sweeten society more than a little.

Columbia Cross-Sections

(A Fidelity Play.)

PLACE: Columbia.

SCENE: A Street.

TIME: Any night.

Persons are discovered strolling along the street.

First Man: Say, Mac, were you there last night?

Second Man: Yes, pretty good, wasn't it? Going to be up for the Community Council meeting Tuesday?

First Man: Yup. Let's go up early and meet Ed and the rest of them before the meeting.

First Boy: Y-ho, Hey, Chuck, goin' up tonight?

Second Boy: Um-huh, gotta take a book back before the Scout meeting.

First Girl: Are you going Friday night Marj?

Second Girl: Yes, Mother and Dad said they're going too, every week. Mamma says it keeps her from getting fat—dancing once a week.

First Service Man: Hey, Jack, goin' to be on deck at Legion meeting tonight?

Second Service Man: You said it, Buddy. It's ladies' night. The auxiliary is going to blow Chow Call. I hear.

First Policeman: (sadly) Funny there isn't anybody to pinch in this town, to speak of, anymore.

Second Policeman: (philosophical) But it's a live town. Wonder what's the answer.

The possible answer: A community house.

THE NEW BOOKS

The Example of Switzerland
Switzerland has always had a fascination for political scientists. The oldest democracy living, Switzerland still leads the world in the application of democratic principles, and so successful has been its experiments in the referendum and the initiative that, according to Felix Bonjour, former president of the Swiss National Council, in his book entitled "Real Democracy in Operation," it may be said to have found suitable safeguards from political convulsions and revolutions.

The former president describes in a remarkable manner other outstanding features of the Swiss Republic which are both of interest to layman and scholar in view of the changes brought elsewhere by the war. People are now becoming more and more interested in their governments and various political reformers have sprung up, each with his principles of political reform. Switzerland has undergone all these political phases and has long ago put a league of nations in operation.

"For Switzerland herself," says Mr. Bonjour, "represents a League in miniature through her achievement in uniting races and languages which elsewhere are given up to pitiless conflicts. Though she has taken many centuries to reach her present happy situation, it is not too much to look forward to a time when other nations, after an experience of bloodshed and catastrophes without parallel, will follow her path in their turn and ultimately reach the same goal, the establishment of the United States of the World which was the dream of Kant and many another great philosopher."

(Frederick A. Stokes Company, New York; cloth, 213 pages with appendix.)

New Autumn Modes

Embodying new lines, new themes, new trimming and embroidery effects of a refreshing novelty and vivid color-tones.

DRESSES & GOWNS FOR FALL, $20.00 up

The bright colors and striking lines of the Eastern nations have left their impress on the New Fall Modes in Dresses and Gowns. Straight of line, with brilliant combinations of exquisitely colored embroideries, the new models,—fashioned in Creped Back Satin, Charmeuse, Duvetyn, Canton Crepe, Tricotine and Poir-et Twill, Serge and Silvertone—are attractively original in conception and masterfully tailored to accentuate the lines of the individual.

NEW AUTUMN SUIT MODES, $45.00 up

The slim, graceful lines and fine precision of tailoring which predominate in the new Autumn Suit Modes are borne out in the collection presented by Branham's. Simple or more elaborate treatments in trimmings and embroideries have been designed solely with a view to accentuate the fine lines of the Suit. The most favored fabrics for the Fall Suits are Veldyn, Silk Duvetyn, Peachbloom, Duvet de Laine, Yalama Cloth, Tricotine and Silvertone.
